

RI RC&D WORKSHOP Coverts I

Rhode Island
Coverts

Rhode Island Coverts Project is an educational program designed to help forest landowners promote the development of critical wildlife habitats using sound forest management practices that can make wildlife healthier, more diverse and abundant.

RI Coverts seeks to help landowners restore early habitat by educating them on proper management techniques, and this helps restore populations of the New England cottontail and the many avian species such as American woodcock, ruffed grouse, eastern towhee, prairie warbler, golden-winged warbler, blue-winged warbler, brown thrasher, and field sparrow, which are native to Rhode Island forests.
